

Disclaimer:

Information collected during registration is for statistical purposes only. The Finally Home!® program is privately funded and is offered by a HUD approved housing counseling agency. As such, we are required to collect demographic information for statistical reporting purposes for the US Dept. of Housing and Urban Development. Information provided is also shared with the hosting organization for registration and statistical purposes only. Hosting organizations may follow up with you.

Every effort is made to provide you with accurate and complete information. Finally Home! assumes no liability for the accuracy, completeness, or usefulness of any information, product or process disclosed to you within the course, its instructors or counselors. Providers of information do not necessarily speak on behalf of Finally Home! and Finally Home! does not endorse any information such providers may present. Regardless of information provided to you through this course, its instructors or counselors, you are entitled to choose whatever lenders, lending products, and home that best meet your needs.

Attendance and completion of the Finally Home! instruction program does not guarantee that you will receive any grant funds from any source.
